experience or where the employee being recruited possesses qualification and competency that is scarce in the market.

ii. On Promotion

On promotion to a higher grade, the pay of an employee shall be fixed at the minimum pay scale of the higher grade, when the minimum is higher than the pay drawn by the employee in the lower grade by at least an amount equal to one increment of the higher grade.

Where the minimum pay of the higher grade is less than the pay drawn by the employee in the lower grade, the difference between the current pay of an employee and the minimum pay of the higher grade shall be calculated to find the increments they are already drawing.

The pay shall be fixed at the amount derived using the following method: [the minimum salary of the higher grade + (increment of the higher grade X (number of increments already drawing + 1 more increment))]

When an employee is promoted through normal promotion in the same cycle of annual increment, the annual increment in the lower grade shall be released first and new pay shall then be re-fixed in the pay scale of the higher grade.

When the employee is promoted in the different cycle of the annual increment, the salary shall be fixed taking the basic salary of the current grade. The annual increment shall be paid after 12 months from the date of promotion.
