1 Background

It has been observed that a huge number of employees of Bhutan Power System Operator are required to be provided with laptops to execute their office work every year. It has also become crucial sometimes to promote mobile offices and workstations considering the situations caused by instances such as the pandemic (like the COVID-19) to overcome the consequences of lost productivity and value destruction. Providing laptops to employees bestows BPSO additional economic advantages, such as reduced utility bills, better care of the property and up-front cost saving when employees contribute their part of the property's cost. Considering the increasing requirement to purchase the laptops every year with increasing maintenance cost of those assets due to lack of accountability and ownership, the co-purchasing of laptops is felt very much necessary. It will ease the financial burden and reduce the disposal of e-waste from increasing purchase every year.

- The lifespan of laptops purchased through this arrangement shall be five (5) years for both windows-based laptops and MacBook;
- The cost of Special Software shall be approved by the competent authority;
- ICTs shall prepare recommended technical specifications and share with employees for their perusal.
- The employees can purchase whichever laptop they prefer.
